Seasonal Psalms and Responses

Among the chants between the readings, the psalm after the first reading is very important. As a rule the psalm to be used is the one assigned to the reading. ... But to make it easier for the people to join in the response to the psalm, the Order of Readings lists certain other psalms and responses that have been chosen according to the various seasons or classes of saints. Whenever the psalm is sung, these texts may replace the text corresponding to the reading. (Lectionary for Mass: Introduction 89; see also General Instruction of the Roman Missal 61. The full list of responses and psalms can be found in Common Texts for Sung Responsorial Psalms in the Lectionary.)

A seasonal psalm may replace the psalm in the Lectionary at any celebration during the season. Alternatively, the verses of the psalm in the Lectionary may be proclaimed with the response in the Lectionary replaces with a seasonal response.
